

TRANSPARENCY PROMISE

At Tranont, we are unwavering in our dedication to crafting the highest-quality products that set a new benchmark for customer satisfaction and performance. Our mission revolves around positively impacting the wellbeing of our valued customers, and our Transparency Promise is an open view into how each of our products supports that goal. Our relentless pursuit of improvement, even perfection, ensures that the products you bring into your home are not just safe but exceptional.

Our approach to product development avoids any unnecessary or potentially harmful ingredients, without hesitation. We maintain a close partnership with our esteemed Scientific Advisory Board, as well as expert manufacturers and formulators, to ensure that our products not only innovate and excel in enhancing your daily routine but, above all, prioritize your safety.

Our manufacturing partners are GMP (Good Manufacturing Practices) certified and adhere to strict standards for every product they create. In fact, our primary manufacturing facility has achieved a third-party certification from NSF—another valuable testament to our continued commitment to excellence in manufacturing.

In our pursuit of excellence we strive to use the most clean, safe, and effective ingredients on the market to drive the results we are passionate about. We also use vegetarian-friendly ingredients, as long as they meet our stringent criteria for purity and efficacy.

We have full confidence in our global ingredient partners, who supply us with the highest-quality raw materials available. We package our products in either minimal-impact or biodegradable containers that are recyclable and BPA-free.

Our unwavering commitment, without compromise, is to provide you with products that are rigorously tested, safe, and clean.
